ATHENS, Nov. 9.—New Greek successes in the Koritza region of Albania and in the Pindus mountain sector of the southern front were reported today in dispatches from the war zone which said thousands of Italians,
including a commandant,
had surrendered to hard-fighting Hellenic warriors.

In the Pindus area, where Greek counter-attacks and a heavy rainfall checked a Fascist drive against Jannina, the Greeks claimed to have completed the encirclement of a strong Italian column.

Surrender En Masse
Italian soldiers surrendered en masse, it was stated, and the total of Fascist soldiers now held prisoner in this area numbers two or three thousand, including the commandant.

Greek military authorities said they expected final destruction of the encircled Italian column today, and that Greek forces already were staging mopping up operations in the wooded areas of the Pindus mountains.

On the northern front, according to reports to Athens, Greek forces

Two Youths Given Six Months Workhouse Term For Taking Police Car

Frank Buxton, 1001 Croton av-they probably imagined was a "big they took a white cruiser car from

However, he who laughs last laughs loudest and within four hours from the time the youths believed they were "kidding police" they were

Sabotage May Have Caused Sinking Of American Steamer

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 9.
—Possibility that sabotage and not a mine was responsible for an explosion which sank the 5,883-ton American merchant vessel City of Rayville in the Pacific ocean off the Australian coast was reported in Melbourne today.

Australian dispatches from Sydney quoted surviving members of the vessel's crew as unanimously expressing the opinion that the ship went down as a result of sabotage, and not because it struck a mine, as was at first reported.

The sinking of the vessel was first announced by Australian Navy Minister William Hughes.
The navy minister also announced that a British vessel was sunk off the Australian coast as the result of an explosion possibly caused by a mine. All except one member of this vessel's crew of 56 men were saved.

As a result of the sinking the Bass straits were closed to shipping until further notice.

(In Washington State Department officials said the United States consul at Melbourne reported the City of Rayville had been the victim of an explosion 120 miles off Melbourne.)

All but one of the 38 crew members were landed safely at an Australian port, Hughes said.

British Report Hitler Hall Is Bomb Target

British Fliers Drop Bombs
On Munich During Hit-

Broadcast Of Hitler's Speech Suddenly Cancel-

By ROBERT G. NIXON

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A stick of British aerial bombs were reported here today to have hit the Loewenbrau beer hall in Munich last night
while Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler was addressing the Nazi "old guard" there.

The explosions were believed to have caused a large fire either in the hall or nearby.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The official communiqué of the German high command admitted today that hits were scored during the night's attack on Munich but did not identify the targets.

The bombs were dropped on the famous Nazi beer hall by British bombers during a terrific raid on Munich that was timed to coincide with the Nazi celebrations of the 17th anniversary of Hitler's abortive beer hall putsch.

Whether Hitler experienced a narrow escape from injury or whether any of his listeners were hurt was not known here, but the British fliers who participated in the raid were reported to have said they were certain one stick of bombs hit the beer hall.

While the British raid on Munich was officially supposed to be directed at the freight yards, it was common knowledge here today that the British fliers were after Hitler.

The purpose of the flight in the minds of the royal air force was to avenge the German bombing attacks on Buckingham Palace. Sources

Albanian Port Bombed By British

Valona Is Hit Report States

Five Tons Of Bombs Are Dropped On City By
R. A. F. Squad

AIRDROME CENTER OF HEAVY ATTACK

(International News Service)
CAIRO, Nov. 9.—Two R. A. F. air raids on the Albanian port of Valona, which was hit by five tons of bombs, were announced in a British communique today.

The raids were carried out by R. A. F. bombers based in Greece. Valona is Italy's most important coastal base on the eastern shore of the Adriatic and main port of entry for fascist troops dispatched to the Greek war from Italy.

The communique claimed considerable damage was inflicted upon port facilities and other objectives. Italian bombers parked on the runways of the Valona airdrome were attacked and shattered, the announcement stated.

In Africa the British reported violent aerial and ground hostilities in the Gallabat sector of the Ethiopian-Sudanese frontier. The communique said that heavily reinforced Italian planes "severely and continuously" bombed the positions we temporarily occupied in the Gallabat district.

was opened, red lights violated and these infractions quickly drew attention of Struthers police.

The stolen cruiser was pursued and stopped. The youths allegedly told the Struthers officers: "We're New Castle police." When they could not produce credentials, they were arrested. Lieutenant Steiner and other officers returned them to this city.

In police court, Mayor Mayne asserted to the youths: "You're no good and I would hate to impose upon the public a task of keeping you boys in prison for years because you are not worth it. If you plead guilty to vagrancy I will drop the charges such as we can put against you. They are larceny of an auto, transporting it across a state line (which is a federal offense) and impersonating an officer."

The boys pondered a moment whereupon Buxton spoke saying: "Mayor, I'm guilty." Trott followed with a similar plea.

The mayor then imposed sentence.

MANY ITALIAN TROOPS SURRENDER

occupied still another hill and were forging an ever tightening ring around Koritza, Italy's chief military base in Albania.

EDITOR'S NOTE: A violent aerial counter-offensive on Italian key positions was reported in Budapest. Advice reaching the Hungarian capital said six planes of Greece's tiny air force attacked Santi Quaranta while British planes carried out another bombardment of Koritza.

Italian Drive Slow

Italy's invasion of Greece has proved so slow according to rumors in Athens, that Premier Mussolini has sent his first soldier, Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the general staff, to Albania to assume personal command of the fascist offensive.

On the western side of the Epirus area, the Greeks admitted a slight strategic withdrawal and conceded that the Italians had reached the Athron river—famous in ancient mythology as the "stream that leads to hades."

But it was claimed that the Greek "Metaxas line" had not yet been dented along its entire 500-mile length.

The Greek siege of Koritza and the encirclement of the Italian column in the Pindus mountains north of Jannina appeared to form a combined strategic maneuver to break down the fascist drive threatening Jannina, one of the most important industrial centers in northern Greece.

In the Koritza region the Greek pressure threatened to swing the entire left wing of the Italian army toward the sea and thereby menace the entire rear of the fascist drive against Greece.

Other reports heard in Athens claimed that increasing unrest has arisen in Albania, forcing Mussolini to rush major troop reinforcements and additional warplanes into the fray in the hope of gaining a quick victory.

certain they had succeeded in averting the attack on the home of their king and queen.

Derisive Notes

In addition to dropping tons of high explosives and incendiary bombs the British flyers, especially the rear gunners, were said to have thrown out bricks and derisive notes addressed to "Adolf" as they flew over the general location of the beer hall.

For an hour and 36 minutes, the British bombers blasted the city with high explosive and incendiary bombs.

The first squadron of British bombers arrived over Munich at 8:34 p. m., and headed directly for the area in which the Loewenbrau beer hall was known to be located.

After wave of British raiders followed their first squadron until 10:10 p. m., when a group of the British flyers made one last defiant swoop over what was thought to be the neighborhood of the hall and turned homeward.

The Loewenbrau hall is not the same one in which Hitler had such a narrow escape last year when a bomb exploded just after he had left that was the Burgerbrau Keller. It burned as a result of the explosion and has not been restored. The Loewenbrau Keller, however, is equally well known among the Nazis.

were certain their raid upset the German arrangements to broadcast Hitler's speech.

Attention was called to the fact that both the German and Italian radio announced sudden cancellation of the broadcast a few minutes before it was scheduled to be made.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The National Broadcasting Company in New York also cancelled the broadcast of the speech on orders from Berlin.

Royal air force men were jubilantly pointing out today that this was the first time the R. A. F. has been able to "keep an appointment" with Hitler, and they were confident he would not soon forget the visit.

The attack on Munich, however, was only one phase of a terrific British aerial offensive against the Axis last night.

British bombers roamed from Germany through Nazi-occupied territory to the northern Italian centers of Turin and Milan; the air ministry announced.

Miss Margaret Bowers Bride Of Dr. J. Robert Brown Friday

The altar of the Third United Presbyterian church, was beautifully arranged with a profusion of ferns, and palms, outlined with white mums and set off with white candles in branching white candlesticks, for one of the seasons loveliest weddings, the principals being Miss Margaret E. Bowers, daughter of Mrs. John C. Bowers, of Adams street, and the late John C. Bowers, and Dr. J. Robert Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Brown of Harlansburg. The event took place Friday evening, November 8, in the presence of several hundred guests.

A cousin of the bridegroom, Rev. Robert P. MacDonald of St. Clairsville, O., officiated with the single ring service, at 7:30 o'clock.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Garth K. Kennedy, of this city, was attractive in a white tulle gown, to length, made redingote style with a lace Peter Pan collar, and long sleeves. Her full length double veil of tulle, was caught in tulle effect and her arm bouquet was of white baby mums.

Harold Burton, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man.

As matron of honor, Mrs. Frank Hamilton was attired in an aqua tulle gown, to length with a brilliant clasp in her hair. She carried bronze mums.

As bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Bowers and Mrs. Garth Kennedy, sisters of the bride, Misses Laura and Mildred Brown, sisters of the bridegroom, wore identical formal gowns of rose mums tulle, featuring the sweetheart neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. A half crown of flowers were worn in their hair, and their arm bouquets were of rose mums.

Miss Jane Brown, a younger sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl, and she was attired in a delf blue tulle floor length gown. She carried a basket of mixed flowers.

Ushering were Dr. Sperry C. Kinton, of Warren, Pa., Dr. Kenneth J. Thomas of Johnstown, Pa., both classmates of Dr. Brown, while at College, Thomas R. Brown, brother of the bridegroom and William Gilch, this city.

Contributing further to the impressiveness of the occasion, Miss Gladys Thomas, violinist, played "Humoresque," "Ave Marie" and "Bells of St. Mary," with Miss Jane Kyle, organist, as accompanist. As soloist, John Kyle sang preceding the entrance of the bride party, "Sweetest Story Ever Told." "At Dawning," and "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Throughout the exchange of vows, Miss Kyle resounded echoes on the church chimes. She offered Lohengrin Wedding March for the processional and Mendelssohn for the recessional.

A reception followed at the Bowers residence, where a buffet lunch was served by girls of the bride's Stitches-A-Bit Club, all in formal attire. The menu was prepared by the Adams St. Section of the Third U. P. church to which Mrs. Brown belongs. Hostesses in charge were Miss Mabel Kocher, Miss Sara Patterson and Miss Mary Zahner.

Mrs. Bowers wore for her daughter's wedding, a soldier blue dress, and Mrs. Brown, mother of the bridegroom, chose a moss green velvet. Their shoulder bouquets were similar, made up of pink pompons.

She has been an instructress in the public schools, and at present, is a member of the Mahoning School faculty. Dr. Brown is also a graduate of New Castle High School and the University of Pennsylvania. An Alpha Xi fraternity brother, he is a prominent practicing veterinarian of this city, and has just completed a new Animal Hospital on the New Wilmington road. The second floor is finished as a five room apartment, and is newly furnished, where they will take up residence upon returning from a short wedding trip.

THOSE ELECTION FORECAST POLLS

ONE of the less burning issues not officially decided on Tuesday was whether it would be better to do away with national elections and substitute "sampling polls," scientific or otherwise, such as those which had the country in a state of premature jitters in the closing days of the campaign.

For instance, there was Dr. Gallup and his famous test ballot. There were tense moments near the windup when it appeared that Dr. Gallup was about to announce a president chosen by "sample" decree.

At the finish, the Gallup poll, through a skillfully devised "margin for error," made a fair showing, although failing to make a definite forecast of the winner. It predicted eight of the states finally chalked up for Mr. Wilkie. But on its ten states "leaning" to Wilkie it was mostly wrong, relates the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Dunn poll went far out on a limb by forecasting victory and 364 electoral votes for the Republican candidate.

Emil Hurja, publisher of Pathfinder Magazine and one-time aide to Jim Farley in compiling pre-election prophecies, was on the same limb as the Dunn dopesters, but not so far out. Mr. Hurja's prediction was only 353 electoral votes for Mr. Wilkie.

Fortune Magazine upheld its claim to bring a pretty good political fortune-teller by indicating a popular vote of 55.2 per cent for Mr. Roosevelt. The figure forecast by the Fortune poll apparently is within a few decimals of being right.

Yet, it may be asked, precisely what useful purpose do these unofficial polls serve? That they provide abundant material for conversation and speculation can't be denied. But there is a question whether their propaganda influence doesn't tend to confuse and mislead voters rather than clarify political opinion.

CASUALTIES WITHOUT WOUNDS

When the present war broke out in Europe, doctors predicted that a wave of influenza or some other epidemic disease would sweep over Europe and perhaps America as it did in 1917-18.

Thus far it hasn't happened. But now a still more terrible prospect is being held out. It is that the prolonged loss of sleep by Londoners and Berliners may bring about a lowering of their resistance to disease, nervous breakdowns, and varied psychiatric troubles.

The day-by-day losses, the hour-by-hour destruction is quite bad enough. To think that a groundwork is being laid for a generation of neuro-psychiatric cases, not only among front soldiers, but among whole peoples, is a thought that adds one more touch of horror to modern war.

To inflict casualties without even having to inflict wounds sounds like a militarist's pipe dream, but the physicians seem to feel that it is a dream coming true.

THE FACTORY INDEX

There has recently been much debate about the degree of recovery in America during the past few years. Recovery usually is indicated by industrial production.

Recently the National Bureau of Economic Research issued an industrial production table covering the 40-year period ended in 1939. It shows that for the ten years ended in 1909 factory output gained an average of 4.7 per cent annually. During the ten years ended in 1919 the average gain was 3.4 per cent per annum. For the succeeding decade ended in 1929 factory output climbed an average of 5.1 per cent each year. During the last ten years, however, factory production actually has declined 0.4 per cent, the first ten-year slump in America's history. During 1939 it decreased 0.1 per cent.

A decline in industrial production in a single year has often happened. In 1908 and in 1921 the slump in production was 20 per cent and in 1919 it was 14 per cent. But the 1939 decline was 23 per cent, while the drop between 1929 and 1932 was 46 per cent.

Current preparedness production is getting the factories back into trim again. But with the single exception of 1936 and early 1937 their course has been downward for the last eleven years. And until they are consistently producing once more at record levels there will continue to be unemployment, government doles, unbalanced budgets, the threat of inflation and the fear of disaster to come.

THE LITTLENES OF MAN

Now is a good time to turn from earth's sordid affairs and give a moment to the contemplation of events in space illustrative of the vastness of the universe and man's littleness. Any time is good for that. The immediate occasion for it is the promise of the astronomers of interesting phenomena within and without the solar system.

First on the program is the transit of Mercury across the sun's disk Armistice Day, next the celestial huddle of the moon, Jupiter and Saturn a couple of days later, which will be a spectacle of brilliance and beauty if the clouds permit.

Last and in some ways most noteworthy is the approach of three comets, of which at least one, according to assurances, will be visible to the unaided eye along in December. That is the Cunningham comet, which first showed up on a photographic plate exposed at Harvard Observatory last August. That plate, by the way, lay waiting inspection one day while the Harvard astronomers were entertaining a group of visiting scientists and revealed its secret only after they were gone.

Those who remember the last appearance of Halley's comet about thirty years ago, and more particularly those who can recall 1882 and the bright streak that dominated first the dawn and then the sunset sky, know what is in store if either of the visitors now on the way performs on a like scale.

Eyes and thoughts will turn heavenward, some in fear and awe and all with thrilled interest. Superstition will have its way and the astrologers will speak up.

But the moon and stars will keep their appointed courses, and the earth, with its strange burden of human strife, will spin on in the same old way. It will have been a sign and one interpreted in various ways, among which the truest must be that the world is small and man a microcosm.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PARENT CAN AID CHILD IN HOME STUDY

Many teachers say they wish parents would never try to help the child at home with his school work. Some of these teachers believe that the parents will use different methods, causing the child to learn things wrong or be confused. Other teachers of this group object to having children hand in written work done by the father or mother.

But wise teachers rarely or never have children do written work at home to be graded at school, nor do they assign much, if any, home work below the fifth or sixth grade. However, in the lower grades they will often motivate the child to read at home, especially from books not read in school, or to practice on some such skills as learning by heart the basic addition and subtraction facts.

Keep Calm

Some parents who are calm are able to help the child of the third, fourth or fifth grade, to master these number facts in such a way that the child will know them perfectly for a lifetime. A few parents have helped their child to gain skill in spelling, and still more have contributed to his gain in ability to read.

While it is true that an occasional parent trying to help the elementary school child will use methods so different from the teacher's as to hamper the child's learning, I have a notion this alleged harm has been greatly exaggerated.

No, I think the harm parents may do while helping their school children at home is not so much from wrong methods as from wrong emotions. Even parents who use exactly the same methods as the teacher might prove exceedingly harmful if they are impatient with the child, scold or yell at him when he makes an error or lags.

Learn At Home

In the home where ideal relationships between child and parent prevail the possibilities for the child to learn are tremendous. See, moreover, the family comradeship which can be cultivated over comfortable and happy learning at home.

In such a home the child learns in an atmosphere of serenity. There is no hurry, no one is angry at another, nor does the child fear rebuke if he makes a mistake. He enjoys learning whether it be making things with his hands, spelling a short list of words, mastering those addition and subtraction facts he used to count out, reading to himself or others, or finding, with the aid of his parents, facts and illustrations that relate to some large project his class have been busy at for days—he enjoys success.

Because so many hundreds of parents have been writing me about children who have trouble with reading, I have worked out some pages I call, "Home Helps for Poor Readers," to be had without cost, by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, N. Y. City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

HOW IT HAPPENS

To receive justice tempered with mercy was the happy lot of 24-year-old John Lämper, who threatened the lives of the editor and publisher of a Monterey, California, newspaper because he considered their publication "pro-British."

From a Federal Court in San Francisco the other day the American-born youth, who had loudly praised Hitler in menacing letters to the two newspapers, received a three-year probation term. Out of the account he gave himself before Federal Judge St. Sure came the picture of an overworked individual, blindly devoted to a recently deceased mother whom he intensely pro-German in her sympathies. Presumably, the violent letters he wrote constituted, in his mind, an "act of revenge." However, the youth was not such a fanatic that he could admit his fate, under similar circumstances in Germany, would have been the guillotine. At his own request he was given leave by the court to return to Monterey to live his action down.

Neither court rulings nor laws can do much to prevent the "dangerous" and "personal" tragedies which follow from hypenated Americanism. That is more a task for education than law-making. But foreign-born citizens and their children are educated not only by schools but by the attitude of the native Americans with whom they come in contact. On both scores, Lämper was very poorly educated. Tolerant American justice is giving him another chance among the people of his own community to improve that education.

Bible Thought For Today

Seek him that maketh the seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night; that calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: The Lord is his name.—Amos 5:8

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 4:48. Sun rises tomorrow 6:40.

It's easy for some birds to be hard drinkers.

Our scientific department reports that ants move faster in summer than in winter, but there are picnics to rush to in summer.

For that lousy feeling—scratch!

A local man says his daughter's new evening dress is a two-way stretch. "It stretches the bounds of decency and the limits of her allowance," he explains.

Now somebody wants Monday as a day off instead of Friday. That will be all right if the Sunday leavings are not kept until Tuesday or later.

"Do you want a straight life?" asked the life insurance agent as the prospect showed signs of weakening.

The prospect hemmed and hawed a bit.

"To tell you the truth I like to step out now and again," he said finally.

A driver of a car, a woman, said yesterday "It's hard to figure out how a person can double park when they have only one car to park."

"Why is it," asks a local grouch "that some people who are the most dictatorial in giving service to customers are the promptest in sending the bills?"

Many people are proud of the things left them by their ancestors. The only thing we had left to us was a long-handled shovel and we do not use it very much for fear it will wear out.

We often wonder why a barber doesn't stop his razor before the customer gets in the chair.

Sometimes a long marriage means a dedlock.

NO INJURIES

There was a crash in the Dazzle parlor.

Pa Dazzle rushed in to see that one of the chairs had collapsed. Doris and her boy friend were looking at the ruins somewhat ruefully.

"What happened here?" Pa demanded.

"Why, the chair just collapsed without warning," said Doris. "But neither one of us was hurt," she added.

After reading a candidate's card, a Harper woman said: "I see this man wants me to support him. I have been supporting my husband for the past ten years and I don't see how I can support any more men."

To find zero in eagerness, try taking up a collection to buy somebody a present.

A chap recently arrested for speeding told the copper he was hurrying to reach a service station before the gas ran out. We have found a soulmate for that driver. She is hurrying to finish a knitted sweater before the yarn runs out.

"This is a wonderful turkey," said the minister as he sat down at dinner with a country pariahonier of color. "Where did you get it?"

The host held up a hand and said: "When you preach a good sermon, Ah doesn't ask you where you got it."

A couple in South Carolina are the parents of 30 children. More Democrats!

Grandpa is one of those who believe that scientists are very resourceful. And he can give many instances to prove that point. "For one thing, take the windows of a railroad coach," says grandpa. "Science couldn't get those windows open so it got busy and air-conditioned the train."

A Pittsburgh woman wants a divorce because her husband's relatives come to their home all the time and she has to pay help to take care of them. Maybe she treats them too nice. Relatives don't like to be treated rough.

We have a report that the wife of New Castle's most heepped man is so sure of herself that she keeps her diary written up a week ahead of time.

Good Taste

By G. B. Pickett O'Brien

A new artist had been hired and ordered to draw a horse and wagon to illustrate a story. Soon he brought the picture in to the editor.

"That's a dandy horse," said the editor, "but where is the wagon?"

"Oh, I planned to have the horse draw that," replied the artist.

One of the reasons for fewer marriages may be that it's getting harder to support the government and a wife on one income.

We don't vouch for the authenticity of this one, but here it is: The foreman of a relief project found that the shovels had worn out and sent in a request for a dozen new ones. Back came this reply:

"Shovel supply exhausted. Tell the men to lean on each other until new supply can be made."

But if preparedness makes jobs and prosperity now, why didn't we spend that twenty billion for defense instead of sidewalks?

Let's have one more government bureau to check up and expose the hokey in slogans, labels and the catch-phrases of the great.

Paris, without a bullet scar, is enslaved; London, wrecked and burned, is still free. The question for all freemen is, what do you value most?

A SECRET

Then there is the man about the mousy little clerk who came in and asked the boss for a raise.

"But I put a raise in your pay envelope last week," protested the boss.

"Then why doesn't my wife tell me these things?" complained the employee.

Honest nations are handicapped now, as usual. Others can win friends by offering big blocks of other people's property.

No wonder people are puzzled. Only a diplomat could understand why we make war on Germany, yet permit German consuls to plan our overthrow.

Italy's official paper says England will be an American colony if we help save it. Still, it didn't show any colonial traits last time.

"We were surprised by the success of the registration,"—Washington official. If only our government could catch up with the people.

What's What At A Glance

Axis Powers Cast Eyes On Portugal
Sensitive Subject To United States
Portuguese Are Friendly To England

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The war may sidetrack Portugal soon, the state department surmises from reports it receives from Lisbon, the little country's capital, and from other European countries.

It's small but it has strategic importance. It also is pro-British, traditionally so. Dictator Franco's government of Spain, on the Atlantic edge of which the wee republic nominally is a republic, it's a dictatorship, too, in reality, is situated, in pro-Axis, as everybody knows.

That, of course, is because Franco is under obligations to Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini for helping him to quell the Spanish republicans. Furthermore, he wants to recover Gibraltar, which John Bull took away from Spain back in Lord Nelson's day. This makes him anti-British.

The Portuguese, on the opposite hand, are under several centuries of obligations of Britain. Mere peewee through their country is at home, its colonies are of major consequence. They include a big chunk of west Africa and several extremely useful islands, among them the Azores, in the Atlantic ocean and Macao, just off the coast of China.

It acquired these possessions somewhere around Columbus time, when its people were world renowned navigators. In later years they petered out from a maritime standpoint, and stronger countries doubtless would have taken their overseas holdings away from them, except that England, ruling the oceans, wouldn't let 'em do it. Why John Bull didn't do it himself isn't at all clear. He didn't though, and ever since then the Portuguese have been most grateful to him.

They Like Us, Too

In an indirect way they like the United States, too. They're the folk who settled Brazil, and the tie between the Brazilians and the land of their origin always has been a very close one, much more so than the tie between the Spanish-American republics and the European Spaniards. Now Brazil, of all the Latin New World countries, has been friendliest to Uncle Sam I suppose the reason is that it produces lots of tropical stuff that we need, whereas we turn out plenty of processed goods that the Brazilians require, making for first class trade relations.

Anyway, we and Brazil are on especially good terms with one another. And Portugal, being strongly pro-Brazilian, is pro-Yankee likewise. It must have been noticed that the Lisbon authorities have been particularly accommodating in enabling Americans in Europe to get back to our side of the water.

Lisbon in today's state of European affairs, is a mighty convenient taking-off place, and the Portuguese government has exerted itself to make it all the more so.

As the Axis sees the situation, however, Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini evidently regard Portugal's policy with emphatic disapproval.

TO this end, the charges of the Republicans that Mr. Roosevelt is a "war monger" that he intends to put this country into the conflict on the other side and plans to make himself the first American dictator, ought to be erased from memory.

At no time did this country seem to itself to that sort of stuff, which, however, was no more creditable than the calculated effort to make it appear that Mr. Wilkie was the choice of the dictators and that he and his party were for "appeasement."

THAT is the sort of unfounded accusation of which each side has cause to be thoroughly alarmed. It was campaigning on the lowest plane and it did no one any credit. In addition, it inflicted wounds which will take a little while wholly to heal. Particularly unfortunate, therefore, seems the disposition of some of the favored journalistic reflectors of the higher New Deal circles to proclaim the result a repudiation of the "subversive elements" in this country and a rebuke to the Nazis and Communists.

THAT is as untrue as it is unwise. Mr. Wilkie personally repudiated the Nazis and Communists during his campaign, and the support he got from them was incidental, infinitesimal, unimportant and undesired. It would be just as fair to assert that because Mr. Earl Browder and the Daily Worker nearly two years ago were the first to advocate a third term for Mr. Roosevelt, and had been among the most articulate and ardent supporters of the New Deal, that the Roosevelt nomination at Chicago was due to them or that they had anything to do with New Deal policies.

THE interest of national unity certainly are not promoted by such contentions, and it is to be hoped the little group of Presidential intimates, from whom they seem to flow, will see the unwisdom of continuing that line of argument now the election is over. The temptation is too great to retort that such suggestions come from particularly bad grace from an Administration which for seven and a half years has systematically coddled the Communists and filled many juicy places in the Government service with fellow travelers.

RECRIMINATIONS of that kind were common in the campaign. Charges and counter charges which could not be sustained, and should not have been made, characterized both sides in the latter weeks. But they ought to be cut out now. Surely, now they have won, the President's advisers ought to be above trying to keep them in circulation.

CHICAGO—P. K. Wrigley, blaming himself for the past season's poor showing of the Chicago Cubs: "I'm trying to decide whether I should fire myself as president."

BISMARCK, N. D.—Senator-elect William Langer, Republican, pledges aid to President Roosevelt: "In times of national emergency such as these I offer you my fullest cooperation."

CHICAGO—Senator-elect Wayland Brooks, Republican, comments on election investigation instigated by opponent: "It seems strange to me that the plundering Democrats should be crying about vote fraud."

Hints On Etiquette

If you are "dummys" in a bridge game, do not leave your seat and rush over to your partner to see what he or she has, as soon as your hand is laid down. It is an annoying habit.

God grant shall duty call to us. To meet the strain of bleak despair. We'll face the tasks that fall to us. As bravely as they face them there.

COURAGE

What matter all our trifling cares? What matter all the ills we bear? A bitterer, grimmer lot is theirs. Who face the shell-fire over there.

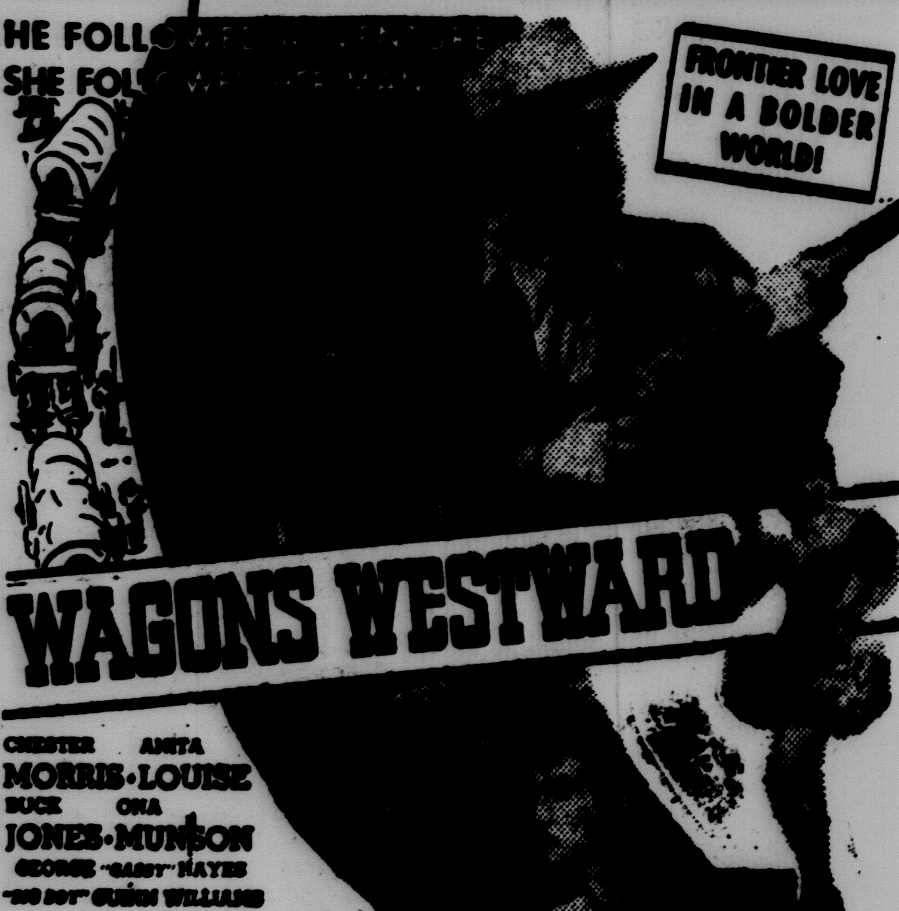

Above us now an airship soars. All undisturbed we hear its drone! We need not flee the wide outdoors. To hide within a cell of stone.

What's What
At A Glance

In their alignment, they naturally don't want a pro-British and pro-American Portugal right on the fringe of the Iberian peninsula.

Moreover, they want Portugal's Azores islands. These islands are about half way across the ocean to South America—nearer than any base that we've got on our own mainland. It's a certainty that they think of them as a vital stepping stone toward the Latin Americas if the win the present war and begin feeling the urge to expand into our hemisphere.

Italy Suggests Pressure

Accordingly, Virgilio Gayda, the Italian editor who's constantly spoken of as Signor Mussolini's mouthpiece, suggests the Axis desirability of bringing what he calls "pressure" upon Portugal to line up with the Hitler-Mussolini outfit.

The Axis can do it alright, if Franco goes in with the combination.

It's forces can slop into Portugal with no trouble whatever, through France and Spain overland. Sea power won't signify. And the Portuguese can put up no more of a fight than Holland, Belgium, Denmark, Norway or Poland could.

To be sure, a conquest of Portugal wouldn't establish the Axis bunch on the Azores. That WOULD call for sea power.

Nevertheless, Portugal's a sensitive subject, even to Uncle Samuel. Besides, Japan would seize the opportunity to grab Macao, which we do have a decided interest in keeping Portuguese.

In short, there's no place on earth where this war isn't a fret to us.

T. N. C. Girls

The Misses Viola and Thelma Denger were hostesses to members of the T. N. C. Girls when they gathered in their home, 1110 1/2 Williams street, Thursday avenue.

An informal period was enjoyed.

with contest prizes going to Ethel Shiffer and Vera Mumford. Lunch was served by the hostesses.

The next meeting on Thursday, December 5, will be in the form of a Christmas party.

EYES

Not long ago I found a woman who had bought glasses for her little girl because the child had been suffering from headache. When I asked her if she were sure that the child's eyes had caused the headache, the mother looked at me in some surprise and said: "What else could it be?" She had not consulted an oculist about it.

Here seems to be a fairly general idea—that eyestrain is the chief cause of headaches. Consequently, many a child is given glasses to wear when he or she really doesn't need them; when some other treatment would clear up whatever is causing the child's head to ache.

The child of today has a much better chance for good eyesight than his father had. For one thing we have learned a lot about proper lighting, especially in schools, so that eyestrain there isn't nearly so common. Also, the science of correcting faulty vision has also gone ahead by leaps and bounds.

Today in our schools, nurses go around in the Autumn and examine the scholars' eyes. If the nurse detects faults in vision, she sends the child to a doctor, and he in turn, if the case looks complicated, calls in an oculist. Because of this routine, faults are often corrected before the damage is so severe that glasses are needed.

A baby is born blind and blue eyed. The Quinns all had blue eyes when they were born and they are all brown eyed now. A short time after birth, babies can distinguish light, then later they can see moving objects. Sometimes it happens that one eye develops more rapidly than the other. We doctors say that one eye is lazy, and that is exactly what it is. One eye lets the other do the bulk of work. So it has been discovered that the way to make the lazy eye do its share is to put a patch over the good eye. Then the delinquent eye has to work. In this way the weak eye is strengthened, and by doing this the need for glasses later in life is often obviated.

We had this trouble with Marie. She was the only Quin that had anything wrong with her eyesight. She had one "lazy" eye, so we put a patch over the good eye for a while and made the other one go to work. The result has been a distinct improvement in her vision. The "bad" eye still isn't a hundred percent, but we think there is a chance that she won't have to wear glasses.

Before you put glasses on your boy or girl, consult an oculist, and have him make a complete examination. Don't let anyone except a trained specialist put glasses on your child.

The headaches he or she suffers from may come from a number of causes. And bad eyes are only one of these. They might be due to sinus infection, or to any one of a half a dozen causes. Diet even plays a part in eyestrain, for good eyesight requires certain vitamins. Deprived of these vitamins, people lose all or part of their sight.

GROUP ENJOYS PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. John Hergenrother were charming host and hostess on Tuesday evening, November 5, when they entertained a group of relatives and friends informally at their home. Police Cannot Take Back Parking Ticket

"When autoists receive a ticket for having violated the parking law they should not telephone police headquarters in an effort to win exemption from a fine. Neither should the autoist request a policeman who has issued a ticket, to take it back," said Chief of Police W. G. McMullen today. Directions on the ticket are explanatory as to what to do he added.

McMullen reported today that some autoists call No. 8 and endeavor to explain why they should be exonerated. This monopolizes the telephone and may interfere with some important call to police.

Persons who receive tags and can show a legitimate reason why a fine should not be levied have the opportunity to appear at 9 a. m. daily, the chief stated.

Deny Sinking Of Convoy Vessels

(International News Service) LONDON, Nov. 8.—Authoritative London circles today belittled German claims that an 86,000-ton British convoy had been sunk in mid-Atlantic. The claims were characterized as "unlikely."

Is right a matter of time? If not isn't a man a suicide if he deliberately does something that brings death in a few years?

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

He had a ship tattooed on his chest—and nobody could sink it. Once tattooed, always tattooed, is no platitude.

Tattoos are of two types, intentional and unintentional. The intentional type tends to be decorative, sailor fashion.

The accidental type is the result of bodily injury. In both types the stain is in the second layer of skin.

Gunpowder explosions may cause unsightly marks on the skin. Burn scars from flame or cinders mar and disfigure.

Many processes are used to remove tattoo marks. None of them are very successful. Small marks may be removed surgically.

A full-rigged ship on the chest is hard to scuttle.

VICTIM OF BLAST HAS GOOD NIGHT

It was reported at the Jameson Memorial hospital today that John Sipe, of R. F. D. No. 3, Volant, operator of a country coal mine, who was badly injured when a delayed explosion occurred in his mine near Neshannock Falls, spent a fairly good night, and that he is expected to recover from the injuries he sustained Friday morning.

X-Ray pictures failed to disclose any pelvic injuries, but revealed several broken ribs and a fracture of the leg.

LEAVE TO ATTEND STATE CONVENTION

J. J. Alexander, 208 Northview avenue, and A. H. Casey, Winter avenue, of the Personal Finance Company of this city, are leaving by plane on Sunday afternoon from the Pittsburgh airport, for Philadelphia, where they will attend the Personal Loan League convention of the State of Pennsylvania. Headquarters will be at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel.

Poppy Day Is Being Observed

World War Emblems Are Being Dispensed Today By American Legion Auxiliary

GOOD RESPONSE SHOWN BY PUBLIC

Citizens of New Castle are wearing blood-red poppies today, symbols of the sacrifice made during the World War by the soldiers of the United States in their war against Germany and her allies. The poppies are being sold on the streets of the city by the Ladies Auxiliary of Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion.

Funds derived from the sale of the poppies are used by the auxiliary in its welfare work, particularly among the veterans who are sent to Veterans hospitals.

These poppies are made by veterans in the hospitals, and this enables them to earn a small livelihood.

A splendid response was noticed to the appeal today, and it is expected that the sale will be most successful.

On Court House Hill

It takes only a few hours for an election board to get its totals into the court house, but the official count is something else again. The four members of the board who started work Friday afternoon have to go over the returns of the 100 election precincts, verify the count on the work sheets, check the number of spoiled and unused ballots, and then enter the results in a record book.

This is the reason for the time used in making the official count. In addition the board will have to verify the count on the Sunday motion picture question. It is thought that Sunday pictures will be started in New Castle on November 24. It will take some time to get the certification of the election to the Secretary of the Commonwealth. Not until has this certification been made can the shows open on Sunday afternoons.

Judge W. Walker Braham was the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Butler County Bar Association on Thursday night. Like the Lawrence county bar association the Butler men get together once a year for a feed and a frolic with a little serious speaking tossed in to lighten the loaf. Recently Judge Braham delivered the address at the banquet of the Fayette county bar association.

The Lawrence county bar association is already beginning to talk of the annual banquet here. The local lawyers hold their banquet near Washington's birthday.

A short hearing was held Friday morning before Judge Braham in the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania against Nick Toschi. He is charged with having accepted relief when he was not entitled to it and has pleaded nolle contendere. The Commonwealth claims that Toschi has $1425 in HOLC bonds and filed a bill of discovery to ascertain what he had done with the bonds. Toschi claims he disposed of them but the state doesn't believe it.

The notes of testimony in the case of Clara Headland against George Schuster and the Midwest Haulers have been transcribed and the court will hear the motion for a new trial soon. The case is one in which Mrs. Headland was injured in a collision and was awarded $6500 damages by the jury trying the case. The defendants claim the verdict is excessive.

NEW CASTLE NEWS

NEW CASTLE HIGH DEFEATS CAMPBELL 13 TO 7

Ciazza Stars In Final Home Game

New Castle Hangs Up Ninth Win Of Year Before 6,000 Fans On Chilly Friday Night; Ciazza And Roberts Make Life Miserable For Campbell; Visitors Impressive, Give New Castle Hardest Fight Of Year; Fortner Tallies For Obions; Will End Season Next Saturday at Warren.

LAYING his last game for New Castle High on the home soil, Sammy Ciazza, New Castle's All-W.P.I.A.L. backfield hope staged a brilliant exhibition last night at Tappan Stadium as New Castle's High "Red Hurricane" defeated a hard fighting and big Campbell Memorial High eleven before 6,000 fans 13 to 7. It was New Castle's ninth win of the year and the eighth straight victory.

New Castle High had its toughest game of the season to contend with last night and the boys came through beautifully. The line from end to end played a magnificent game, the backfield led by Sammy Ciazza performed like champions. As good as the Campbell team was, they were not the equal of the Bredenbaugh coached machine.

In the first down department New Castle edged the Obions, 8 to 7. Robert E. "General" Lee, the colored sophomore fullback showed the Campbellites and the fans some fancy passing and blocking. It was a ball game, the likes of which has not been seen here for sometime. The game was clean all the way, the penalties were mighty few.

Campbell Threatens
The Campbell team made a try for a touchdown in the first period. Taking a punt from Bucchi on the Campbell 40 and returning it to the New Castle 47, Stembleda put the Campbell team in a position to score. Macekyo picked up five yards, and then Mike Modak the big Campbell fullback went through to the New Castle 28 for a first down. Two Campbell passes failed to materialize after Macekyo and Stembleda had failed to gain and New Castle took the ball on downs on their own 27.

A very peculiar play occurred just as the first period ended. Lee passed to Bucchi, but Ciziolelli of the visiting team got in the way and grabbed the ball out of the air, but he couldn't hold on to the ball and it bounced out of his arms right into the waiting arms of young Sammy Ciazza, on the Campbell 33 yard line, making it second down and nine on the Campbell 38 as the whistle blew.

Ciazza Tallies
New Castle almost had a touchdown in the early moments of the second period, but Roberts fumbled and Campbell recovered on the Obions 25 yard line. Three plays by the Campbell boys, Barallaire kicked to New Castle on the New Castle 36 yard line, and the stage was set for the first New Castle touchdown. The locals never giving up the ball as they marched to the Campbell goal.

On the first play after Barallaire's nice kick, Ciazza clicked off a five-yard run, then made two more, Lee faded back and unhooked a beautiful pass to Bucchi on the Campbell 20 for a 37 yard gain and a first down. Ciazza made a yard and then made three more. Lee tossed another pass to Tomaleilo on the Campbell 7 yard line, making it another first down. From the 7-yard mark Ciazza circled right end and was over for the first New Castle touchdown. Adamo made the extra-point by placement.

New Castle had the ball on an exchange of punts as Bucchi kicked to Campbell out of bounds on the New Castle 40 as the first half ended, New Castle leading 7 to 0.

Ciazza Scores Again
Midway in the third period Campbell got the ball when Bucchi punted to the 27 yard line. Stembleda lost seven yards when thrown by Adamo. Barallaire made a yard. Macekyo was stopped cold for no gain. Barallaire punted to New Castle. Ciazza in the safety post grabbed the ball on the New Castle 46-yard line and started down the field touchdown bent, and about half-way to the goal line. Larry "Spike" Roberts, the colored left-half executed the sweetest block seen here in years as he seemingly took three of the Ohio players out of the way as they went to grab the fleeing Ciazza. His path clear now, it was no effort for Ciazza to gallop the remaining 20 yards for the second touchdown. Adamo's try for extra-point was stopped by the goal posts cross bar and was no good. The New Castle 13-Campbell 0. As it later turned out, the second touchdown made by Ciazza and Roberts, we should say, was the margin of victory. As the third period closed New Castle had the ball fourth down and 28 to go, on their own 33. Lee, on a pass to Roberts in a new formation, lost 21 yards after New Castle had taken the ball on a punt from Barallaire on the Campbell 40-yard line.

Fortner Scores for Obions
To open the final period Bucchi punted to Campbell on the Campbell 43, the ball being downed by Roberts. This set the stage for the lone Campbell touchdown, as they never surrendered the ball until Fortner, the big colored fullback, crashed over from the half-foot line. During the Campbell march to the goal line Fortner carried the ball no less than 10 times, Campbell registering four first downs without being halted. The try for extra point by Barallaire was good, making it New Castle 13, Campbell 7. The remainder of the period was played mostly in the middle of the field, New Castle playing it safe and protecting the lead by kicking, towards the final minutes of the battle to Campbell on the Campbell 29-yard line. The Ohio team led by Barallaire, who tossed three passes in a row, one to end, Ciazza grabbed a Campbell pass tossed by Barallaire, on the New Castle 40, and carried it to the Ohio 36-yard line. Roberts made five yards at tackle as the game ended, with New Castle on the winning end.

Jerry Leads Good
With Freddy McKee, the blond quarterback, on the bench with a broken leg suffered in the Johnstown game, the New Castle team was directed by Don Jerry, a former guard, last night, and he did a good job in his baptism as a backfield man and field general. Jerry's nice blocking on several of the runs that Roberts and Ciazza made helped out in no small way. Peters, too, starting his first varsity game at right guard, played a fine game and fitted right into the picture.

The outstanding lineman last night for New Castle was Ernie Adamo, who was in the Campbell backfield all evening making tackle after tackle. Audino also was much in evidence with stellar tackling of the Campbell ball carriers.

The last game of the year, next Saturday, will take the New Castle team to Warren, O.

Butcher Meets Turner Monday In Arena Ring

Moran, Leasure, Baxter, Tony Arnett And Pratt To Fight

BEST LOOKING CARD HERE IN SOMETIME

Monday night, in The Arena, 16 glove warriors will participate in a Fistic extravaganza; one containing district champions, Golden Glove tourney winners, known sluggers and some novices. They'll be paired in eight bouts. The battles will begin at 8:30 p. m.

Each of the battlers has aspirants of some day becoming a Billy Conn II or a Frankie Zivic III. Both Conn and Zivic are former amateurs, like wise Joe Louis, the current world's heavyweight champ and also the retired king of heavyweights, Gene Tunney.

Conn and Zivic now are capturing the fancy of fandom and capitalizing on their fistic feats as did Gene Tunney and Joe Louis. Who can tell but that some of the lads who will hit and be hit here Monday night may not wear a pugilistic disband.

On the card are some familiar names; Frankie Zivic, the former champion of the A. M. A. And next to the last bout (Butcher and Turner are the finalists) will be the clever, elusive Henry Pratt of Pittsburgh, reputedly a five-time fighter. That is he has won that many tourneys. His opponent? None other than the rough Baby Face Costa of Meadville.

Just because they moniker Costa a "Baby Face" is no reason to believe he has a baby's face. We've seen him in action and saw his face stop many punches. He has a few battle scars, such as babies who do not fall out of high chairs or a crib, do not possess. They're 118 pounds.

Frankie Genaro, a "G. G." boy of Youngstown, at 150, hopes to dispose of Jimmy Wert, a newcomer from Bellevue, in jig-time. But can he? Maybe yes and maybe no. Frankie has a wallop like the kick of a mule. Wert must have something else the matchmaker would not have assigned him a role.

Baxter Showing Promise
Frankie Moran, the kayo southpaw of New Castle hopes to drop Eddie Sickle of Bellevue some time before their nine minute scrap is ended. If Sickle shows up to fight Frankie, he will be the first to brave Moran's pair of flying, battering fists. They box at 135.

And talking of other boys, not as experienced as Moran, watch Russell Baxter and Les Leasure fight. Baxter will shoot lot of jabs and then try to cross his right to the jaw of Joe Stranner of Pittsburgh. Russ has been winning easily recently. He may be fooled Monday.

Leasure popped into a ring in The Arena and popped out his opponent. Monday night he will fight a lad named Tommy Penrod, 150, of Bellevue. Both are sluggers, lack science, hence they are prospects of a free-swinging battle in which either may win.

Sport Niblets:—There's a strange situation in Baltimore today. George Chip, Jr., who is witnessing the Navy-Notre Dame encounter, is undoubtedly No. 1 Notre Dame rooter here. Today, however, the lad in Navy's quarterback post will be a strapping 180 pounder wearing a big No. 37 on his uniform. The lad is William Chip, George's brother....

Andy Blordi, one of Ellwood City's top ranking sports followers, will again toss one of those gala banquets honoring Ellwood City High's 1940 grid combination. Blordi contemplates dishing out another star-studded program. Paul Brown, Massillon's coach, has been selected as the speaker of the evening. The newly-formed Lions Club of Ellwood City will assist Blordi....

Bessemer High's football smoothies, Lawrence County Class B. kings for four consecutive years, will be honored at a banquet carded for Thursday evening, November 21, in Bessemer gymnasium starting at 6:30 o'clock. Ellwood City High ends its 1940 grid season Monday afternoon, facing Beaver Falls in the valley town. The game was originally booked for this p. m....

Georgetown, which boasts of having everything, will not likely have an abundance of what it boasts.

come the '41 pig-pelt campaign. The Hoyas will be stripped of no less than 18 footballers when June rolls around. Before the regulation season started, Army and Columbia staged a practice game. The Kaydets rolled up a 35-0 edge. Army must have used all of its power in that clash....

Sammy Sneed's case is one of the strangest in the sports world. There is hardly a topnotcher golfer who won't readily admit that cowering Sammy is the best performer on the links today. Yet Sneed has never won a major golf title. Walter Hagan, Craig Wood and Dick Chapman are among the legion boasting of Sneed's superior ability on the course. Sneed's trouble seems to be his nerves. At critical moments, he tightens up, costing him title after title....

Any time now some important winter baseball news should hit the sports pages. What's going to happen to the Yanks? Who are the new owners and when will the deal be consummated? Fandom anxiously awaits the dope regarding baseball's biggest organization. In addition to a possible shake-up in the front office, the roster will be re-shuffled extensively.... Cincinnati smashed an all-time N. L. mark by copping 41 of its 100 victories by one run....

Many Games Won At Crack Of Gun

Many Grid Encounters Decided This Season During Waning Moments

In baseball, a game is never over until the last out.

In football, a tussle is never over until the final gun goes off.

A check-up shows that quite a few clashes have been decided in the waning moments of play, this season.

Some of the cases in mind: One second to play—and Ray Kreck, of Wisconsin caught a pass and beat Purdue, 14-13.

One minute and thirty seconds to go! Stanford and Southern California tied! Stanford scored 14 points in 90 seconds.

Forty seconds to go! A Washington and Lee man kicked a field goal to beat Richmond, 3-0. Ditto in the Syracuse game with Columbia 3-0.

Williams over Tufts, 22-20, by a field goal in the last 30 seconds.

Don't leave your seats until you hear the gun!

Band Presents New Spectacle At Grid Game

Squad Of Members Of Battery F Also Have Part In Stirring Program

Following the lead of the football team Friday night, the New Castle high band finished the football season in the proverbial "blaze of glory." If the team was endeavoring to win the last one for the school the band was no less anxious to make as good a showing in its line. And it did.

More than the usual intermission time was taken up Friday night by the band for a demonstration designed to point attention to the Red Cross drive. A huge Red Cross was formed by the band members and "Onward Christian Soldiers" was played.

Following that, a squad of twelve batterymen from Battery F. of the 190th Field Artillery, under the command of Lieutenant Ray F. Atkinson, put on a guard mount and then stood at attention while a bugler played a number of the army calls: Reveille, Retreat, Tap, and the band played the Star Spangled Banner.

The picture was a pretty one out on the field and one that drew as much applause as a forty yard run through a broken field. The band boys and girls were in the groove, they wanted to finish the season just a little better than any other performance than they had put on all year. They did.

Wabash Bears At Youngstown

The Wabash Bears football team will go to Youngstown on Sunday to battle the Scher Tailors at Evans Field at 2:30 o'clock. It was announced by Willie Domenick today.

The Bears and Tailors played a 6-6 tie game here last Sunday at the E and A field. The Bears hope to win at Youngstown tomorrow with a strong lineup available. Coach "Blackie" Adamo has given the Bears stiff drills all this week.

"Rabbit Tackling" Is New Practice Stunt For Titans

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Nov. 9.—Coach Grover Washabaugh had reason to claim today that even though his Westminster Titan squad occasionally miss tackles, they are "rabbit tacklers" par excellence.

In a dull moment during blocking-practice this week, Washabaugh, with the usual eagle-eye of the master-huntman that he is, spied a large buck-rabbit watching football practice in the shadow of the bleachers. He sneaked up warily with a football jersey, and captured the unsuspecting bunny.

Then, not knowing exactly what to do with it, he decided to see how alert the Titans really were on tackling. So he formed a close circle of the entire squad; and, standing in the center, began releasing the rabbit. Each time the bunny was safely caught, the circle of players was enlarged until several yardspace was left between each griddier.

On the tenth release, however, the bunny slipped out between the twin dives of the two Demoise brothers of Greensburg, and ran scampering off the field, probably wondering what kind of a world he had wandered into.

Washabaugh regrets he doesn't have an ear or a leg from the bunny for good luck, since he feels perhaps the rabbit was an omen of good luck.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL

Good afternoon or maybe it's evening by this time... did you get your poppy today? We hope that each and every card has one attached. By wearing a poppy you are helping a fellow live that put his life at stake for you... don't fail him he didn't fail you.

It seems that some of the younger generation are losing respect for things that have been held dear to the residents of this country... we have noticed that American flags have been damaged... property pertaining to flags have been damaged... the flag has been used too frequently in the wrong manner... nothing should be attached to the flag... if we disregard the things upon which this country was built... then we might just as well give it back to the Indians... Let's do some talk thinking about this great land of ours... we must respect the property of others... when this was lost over there... they got what they now have over there.

In the still of the night... no we are not thinking about a popular song... or Bing Crosby... but last night when things were quiet and the town was sleeping... like a couple of young men slipped into the police garage and drove off in a cruiser car... the car had been put aside because the brakes were not in good working order... it was to have been put into the city garage this morning for repairs... it was found some two hours later in Struthers, O... for sentence for this type of crime... read story in front part of this issue.

Some folks think that snow shovels are to be used in the winter when snow is on the ground... I said some folks think this... we did until last night we noticed our neighbor out shoveling wet leaves from the carway in front of his home... not a bad idea... in fact when you get right down to it... a very good idea... maybe you can use it when next you gather leaves.

Tomorrow is Sunday... you will sleep later than you do on week days... you will then arise and attend a church service... then for a tasty little meal... maybe a ride with the family in the afternoon... back home to listen to Charlie McC. then maybe a late snack and so to bed... a nice quiet day... the way the Sunday should be.

(International News Service
Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The stock market resumed its upswing on a broad front today, leaders climbing 1 to 3 points under the lead of copper and steel. Several pivotal issues reached new highs for the year.

Prices were higher from the opening and the rally gained momentum as the session progressed. Heaviest buying came in the second hour, when the ticker ran late.

Turnover was the largest for a Saturday in two months, with the two-hour total almost reaching a million shares.

Bethlehem and U. S. Steel each up almost 3 points, with the latter hitting a new 1940 peak well above 76. Republic Steel, up more than a point, also was in new high ground. Others in the group showed gains running to well over a point.

Demand for copper shares reflected strength in red metal prices. American Smelting jumped more than 2 points, while Anaconda, Kennecott and Phelps-Dodge did nearly as well.

Elsewhere in the list advances ranged from 1 to more than 2 points. Chrysler, International Harvester, U. S. Gypsum and American Locomotive preferred each were up at least 2 points. U. S. Smelting, up almost as much, was at a new top for the year.

Rails, utilities, oils and rubbers showed somewhat lesser gains than the general average. A few of the chemicals, as Union Carbide and Monsanto, were backward through out the session.

DIXIE DAVIS WORKING AT STAND

In the national spotlight a few years ago when he turned state's evidence against the Dutch Schultz policy racket mob in New York after being the gang's "mouthpiece," Dixie Davis now has been discovered working at a roadside juice stand at Palm Springs, Cal. Mrs. Davis, the former Hope Dare, "Follies" girl, is working as a waitress at the stand. Mrs. Davis is shown with her dog.

You may find that your two-year-old child is too big for baby blankets, yet full-sized single blankets are too big and bulky for the little bed. A long (72x90) all-wool double blanket cut into three pieces makes just the right size. One may be finished with the binding that has been on the long blanket, and the other two may be blanket stitched.

But even if we found the cure for all human woes, demagogue politicians would call it a trick to hurt the poor man and people would reject it.

Gourd Show Will End This Evening

Many Colorful Arrangements Are To Be Found In Exhibit At Library

Despite the fact that this year's growing season was not favorable for gourds, due to the excessive dry weather, members of many of Lawrence county's garden clubs have arranged a fine exhibit in the public library.

Colorful and attractive are the many and varied arrangements of gourds and bouquets suitable for use in the home during winter months. One could drive many miles to gourd shows and not see anything more beautiful than has been arranged by the local people.

In addition to the colorful arrangements, which would be a welcome addition to the decorative scheme of any home during the long winter months, the gourds have been used in many different ways.

Examples of gourds hollowed out to form containers for both living plants and bouquets are included in the exhibit. In one corner of the library Garden Center is a portion of a tree and among the branches are several bird houses, examples of what might be done for our feathered friends through the use of gourds.

It is the hope of the garden groups taking part in the show that the arrangements and exhibits will tend to create a desire on the part of those who see them to grow gourds in their own gardens.

This year's show will remain open until 9 o'clock tonight in order that as many persons as possible will be able to attend. Admission is free.
